

BULLETIN
OF
THE TOKUGAWA INSTITUTE FOR THE HISTORY
OF FORESTRY
(Tokugawa Rinseishi Kenkyūjo Kenkyū Kiyō)

March 2008

Vol. 42

CONTENTS

Articles

- A study on the forest policy pursued by the Owari Tokugawa feudal domain in the Kyōhō era of the Edo period, the smac planting after abolishing the annual wood tribute system. Akira Ōsaki (1)
- An analysis of the actual conditions of afforestation business by village farmers at Mt. Kiso in the Edo period. Furthermore, a study of the fact that later this business constrained the Meiji government from including Kiso forest in the national forest and gave an opportunity to create forests under private ownership. ... Noboru Tahara (29)
- A study of the actual conditions and significance of afforestation policy on the territory of the Shogunate in the Hida district in the first half of the 19th century. Nobuhiro Takahashi (49)
- A study of the actual conditions of Osutakayama and its conservation system, targeted for Kōzuke province and Sanchū-ryō villages, as one of the forestry policies of the Edo Shogunate. Part One. Takayuki Satō (71)
- An analysis of actual conditions of the Hyōjōsho of the Edo Shogunate for the established period, with a case study of border disputes in the first half of the 17th century. Ichirō Miyahara (95)
- A study of the characteristic of formality of the Mangokujō feudatory affiliated to the Three Tokugawa families, with an analysis of the actual conditions of how to worship the Shogun in the alternating attendance system(Sankin-kōtai system). Kōin Shirane (111)
- A study of Kinnōyūin activity by the Owari clan in the Tōkaidō district for the last days of the Tokugawa Shogunate. Megumi Ueno (131)

[Reports on the research activities]

- Preservation of historic materials and activities concerning the national forest. The Tokugawa institute for the history of forestry (157)
- How to research the historic materials held by all forest offices of our country. Naohiro Ōta
- Progress of preservation and research on the whereabouts of the historic materials concerning the national forest. Morihiro Katō
- Structure and characteristics of the historic materials held by the Tōhoku regional forest office. Masami Narita
- Structure and characteristics of the historic materials held by the Chūbu regional forest office. Noboru Tahara
- Summary and characteristics of research on the historic materials held by the National forests in Kyūshū office. Naohiro Ōta
- Participants records about the meeting for reporting researches on preservation and activities of historic materials concerning the national forest. Tatsuhiko Sakamoto
- Realization of permanent preservation of historic materials concerning the national forest. Naohiro Ōta

[Book Review]

- Morihiro Katō, Kinsei Sansonshi no Kenkyū* (Historical research on mountain village districts in the suburbs of Edo in the Edo period). Kōzō Nishi (175)

[Appendixes]

- A catalog of historical materials concerning the Owari Tokugawa family. Part Four. (1)
- A catalog of historical materials concerning the Ishiko family who was a retainer of the Owari Clan. Part Three. (1)
- Catalogue of a group of the historic materials called Kinnōyūin-shorui. (1)

THE TOKUGAWA INSTITUTE FOR THE HISTORY
OF FORESTRY

(TOKUGAWA RINSEISHI KENKYŪJO)
THE TOKUGAWA REIMEIKAI FOUNDATION
8-11, Mejiro 3-chōme, Toshima-ku, Tokyo, 171-0031, Japan