

BULLETIN
OF
THE TOKUGAWA INSTITUTE FOR THE HISTORY
OF FORESTRY
(Tokugawa Rinseishi Kenkyūjo Kenkyū Kiyō)

March 2010

Vol. 44

CONTENTS

Articles

- A study of the structure and function of feudal lords gardens in the Edo era with consideration of the utilization of garden and the actual status of trees and flowers planting by the Lord of a feudal clan and vassals, with the Owari Tokugawa family provided as a case study.Kōin Shirane (1)
- A study of the process and significance of the policy into the promulgation of the law aimed at discouraging of deforestation in the late 18th century in response to depletion of timber resources on Shogunate-held lands in the Hida district.
.....Nobuhiro Takahashi (27)
- A study of the actual status of the forest utilization and the statesman's recognition of forest after the 18th century, through the actions of the Takayama government office in the position between the restoration reserves of forest resources and lifework maintenance of communities on Shogunate-held lands in the Hida district.
.....Naohiro Ōta (43)
- A study of the actual status of the colonization of the island of Hokkaidō by former vassals of the Owari Clan in the 10th year of Meiji.Hideaki Fujita (59)
- A study of the formation and movement of the vassals and ladies in waiting for the Tokugawa shogun Ienari's daughter, Yoshihime, who wed Tokugawa Naritomo, the 10th head of the Owari Tokugawa family.Kasumi Yoshinari (83)

[Appendixes]

- A catalog of historical materials concerning the Owari Tokugawa family. Part Six.
..... (1)
- A catalog of historical materials concerning the Ishiko family who was a retainer of the Owari Clan. Part Five. (1)

THE TOKUGAWA INSTITUTE FOR THE HISTORY
OF FORESTRY

(TOKUGAWA RINSEISHI KENKYŪJO)
THE TOKUGAWA REIMEIKAI FOUNDATION
8-11, Mejiro 3-chōme, Toshima-ku, Tokyo, 171-0031, Japan